Renting of New Space Seen If State Increases CU Aid

By Tom Ackerman

President Gallagher said yesterday that if the State Legislature enlarges the City University's operating budget, the University will be forced to rent additional facilities to accommodate the resulting increase in students.

At the same time, he reiterated a warning that if the State Legislature does not pass bills for increased aid to the City University, the College would be forced to freeze the number of freshman admissions to its present level of 2500 students until at least 1970 when University expansion will be underway.

He added that an expected rise in applications to the University in 1968 would necessitate another elevation of the academic average "cut-off point," if the same bills are not passed.

The number of projected enrollments for the University in 1970 is 71,900, 15,800 more than the number of students expected to attend in September.

President Gallagher refused to comment further on the possibility of renting new facilities off the

The President added that he was "just as sanguine as ever" regarding the chances for passage of the increased state aid to the city.

A strong measure of support for the University was received Tuesday when the City Council passed a resolution urging the state to

Margules Runs In SG Contest For Presidency

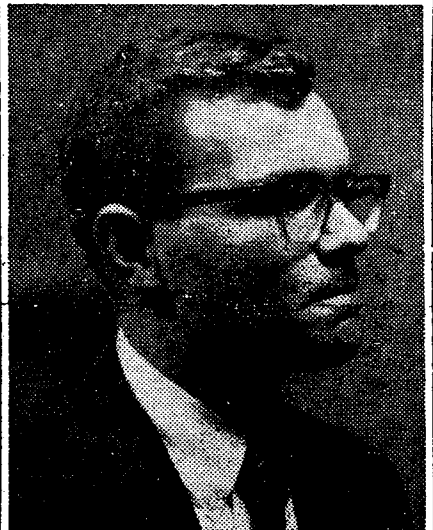

By Neil Offen

Student Government Campus Affairs Vice President Rubin Margules '67 last night announced his candidacy for SG President.

Margules, who declared that SG "has never sunk so low in the amount of respect that students and faculty give it," will run independently against Shelly Sachs '67 of the Independent Party, the only other announced candidate for the position.

The Campus Affairs Vice President said that "although I could much easier run for executive vice-president and probably be assured of victory, I felt that as president I could do much more to revitalize SG."

Margules added that if elected

he would "hope that SG would concentrate on on-campus matters, and on-campus matters only."

Decrying a "sorry lack of communication between SG and students, faculty and administration," Margules said he would "emphasize student recruitment for SG

Gallagher Reverses Ruling on Vacations

By Steve Dobkin

Under student pressure, President Gallagher yesterday reversed an administrative decision dividing next year's spring vacation into two separate three-day periods.

In a meeting with two Student Government officials, the President agreed to lengthen the vacation, but warned that classes may then be necessary on either Washington's or Lincoln's birthday.

Dr. Gallagher also agreed to allow an SG committee to consult with Registrar Robert L. Taylor on drawing up the College's calendar.

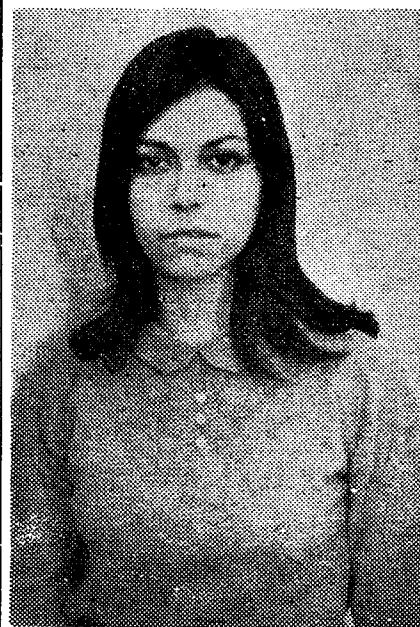

Next year's calendar will now set aside a full week, Monday, April 24, through Saturday, April 29, for the Passover Holiday along with Friday, March 24, and Saturday, March 25, for Easter, the President said.

The original calendar, approved March 15 by the President's cabinet, split the vacation in order to accommodate the unusually-wide separation next year between Easter and Passover.

President Gallagher said he will call on the cabinet next week to reverse that decision because the SG representatives, Executive Vice President Lynda Lubar '67 and Community Affairs Vice President Ellen Turkish '68, had convinced him "the present mind of the student body" favored a longer holiday. Council had threatened to consider a student strike if the calendar was not changed.

The extra day which results from the week's vacation could be essential, the President explained, because "the various departments require seventy days to complete their programs" and with the ex-

Pupils Protest At City Hall On Admissions

By Lana Sussman

Students from nine New York City high schools are picketing City Hall daily to protest the City University's announcement that 2,278 less students will be admitted in the fall.

Protesters carrying signs reading "If deprivation is sinful, why are you a sinner," and "Education Now — Politics Later" are asking for the passage of bills increasing state and city aid to the University.

The students, who are picketing all this week and every Tuesday thereafter, are being supported in

Podell Claims Budget Surplus; Asks More Aid to Education

By Andy Soltis

State Assemblyman Bertram Podell (Democrat) said last night that Mayor Lindsay would find himself with a budget surplus this year and suggested that the additional funds be used to aid the City University.

Speaking at a free tuition rally at Brooklyn College, Assemblyman Podell said the Mayor had underestimated some assets and overestimated some costs in drawing up the 1966-67 budget.

The Assemblyman said he hoped that if the legislature approves the budget and this surplus is realized, the University should receive a major portion of the money.

The Mayor was not available for comment.

The rally at which Mr. Podell spoke was attended by 150 evening session students of the University to protest the fact that they pay $10 a credit tuition fee while candidates for the same degrees at the community colleges receive a free education.

Both Assemblyman Podell and Deputy Mayor Timothy Costello denounced this disparity, but while Assemblyman Podell claimed that the trouble was the lack of city aid, Mr. Costello pointed an accusing finger at Albany.

The deputy mayor began the rally by saying that free tuition for evening session students could be achieved only through more aid from the State Legislature.

"There is no way of righting this disparity without a truly remarkable increase in state funds," he said.

The rally, which was expected to attract over a thousand evening session students, was plagued by over an hour of rain.

One of the organizers, Richard Sanders of Brooklyn College, said, "I like to believe that it was the rain that held down the crowd, but it was really just student apathy."

College Christened 100 Years Ago — So Who Cares?

By Sandra Wright

At the stroke of midnight Saturday, a long-forgotten chapter in the College's history will quietly pass its first centennial.

On April 30, 1866, the students of the College marched in a solemn funeral procession from the Reservoir Park on 42 Street down Fifth Avenue to 23 Street, site of the Free Academy, now the Baruch School of Business.

Yesterday, President Gallagher said the College will bypass the centennial, as it plans to celebrate on May 11, the anniversary of the founding of the Free Academy.

The march, organized by an active class of 1868, marked the change in name and status of the school as the Free Academy became the College of the City of New York.

A special committee for the "Burial of the Free Academy" and "Christening of the College of the City of New York" had been formed by the class for the occasion, and on the night of April 30 250 students, including members of the literary societies and Glee Club assembled for the trek.

The parade included a brass band of eleven pieces, a Master of Ceremonies, and a square enclosing the "Orator," the "Poet," and the "Prophet" of the occasion. "Grave-diggers" and "undertakers" marked along in front of a textbook-laden coffin borne by a number of "Pall Bearers."

Upon the procession's arrival at 23 Street, the death march was played, an appropriate dirge sung, and a solemn funeral oration given before the coffin was lowered into a specially prepared grave at midnight.

Then May 1 arrived and with it the "Christening of the Babe." Ed-

Holiday Spirit

It is not often that President Gallagher reverses an administrative decision. When he does so for a worthwhile reason it is especially gratifying. In this case, the President decided that a drastic cut in spring vacation time was not warranted, and the extra days should be returned to the students.

Dr. Gallagher has come to the rescue of harried students who need time to prepare for imminent final examinations and term paper deadlines. Moreover, he has also done a service for those undergraduates who prefer to use the time for relaxation after 10 grinding weeks of classes.

And the President's decision shows promise not only in garnering an extra day of vacation but in creating better communications between students and the administration as well. The creation of a committee giving students a voice on matters which will directly affect them can surely prevent the distortion of minor disputes into major conflicts. This matter, for one, need not have been settled in the manner of dramatic confrontation between opposing sides, had there been some channel of communications between the decision-makers and those who shall feel the weight of the decision to begin with.

However, it speaks well of SG that it can, when it wants, take the initiative in an effort that directly affects the entire student body. The administration should also be complimented for lending an ear to a legitimate student complaint.

We sympathize with the problem now facing the administration of filling the legal requirement of a minimum number of instructional days. But we are confident that this problem is not too nettlesome to be solved while preserving the students' needs for some time off from the everyday tedium.

What's in a Name?

Saturday night, April 30, 1966, will mark the 100th anniversary of the change in this school's name from the Free Academy to the College of the City of New York. Only in the era of the trivia craze—when Billy Batson and Charlie Farrell are fondly remembered—could this anniversary have any significance.

Remembering the date is indeed camp, although we confess we are at a loss to decide whether it is high, low, or middle. It might be none of them.

Nevertheless, it is not entirely unprofitable to give a slight nod to this memorable occasion, celebrated by students 100 years ago in a solemn "funeral march" along Fifth Avenue. Like playing trivia, it enables us to recapture an innocuous piece of the past that has been lost. Why bother to find it again? Why not?

Therefore, we urge all students to remember the event with us this Friday, the last school day before the anniversary. We should make our celebration discreet and appropriate to the occasion—like sticking a lighted match into a stale cupcake on a cafeteria table. We owe it to history.

ward Morse Shepard '69 delivered a poem for the occasion after which Richard Rogers Bowker '68, the sponsor of the festivities, broke a bottle of lager beer upon the side of the building, christening the newborn school.

The highlight of the program was a song composed by George Baker '69 to the tune of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp."

*We have buried 'neath the sod
Our Alma Mater's bones,
And in our eyes has stood the parting tear,
But now we'll jolly be
And cease our dismal groans,
And drown our sorrows in good lager beer."*

*Tramp, tramp, tramp
The boys are marching
Mourning for the Academy defunct,
And our torches shed their light
Through the darkness of the night,
Though 'neath her reign we'd fizzled and we'd flunked.*

*Though demerits fell like rain,
And expulsions gloomy form,
Loomed up on the horizon dark and drear,
Yet—well we loved the bark
That bore us through the storm
And we felt a gloomy joy mixed with fear . . .*

*Hail the college now new-born!
Our cry shall ever be,
May she, as a bright and shining light, aye shine.*

*A beacon for all mirth
As well as solid worth,
The Glory and the pride of all the land.*

work, above all else. You can't do anything without the people," he added.

Margules called "the lack of adequate student participation" SG's "biggest failure this year."

Stating that the "vast majority of students are disinterested and apathetic concerning the free tuition issue," Margules said his free tuition campaign would emphasize the utilization of a "small nucleus of hard working students."

The purpose of the free tuition campaign, he said, would be to "publicize the issue, defeat Governor Rockefeller and elect any candidate who believes that the City University should get all the money that it deserves."

City Council President Frank D. O'Connor met with the demonstrators Tuesday and told them to "continue to fight."

However, Deputy Mayor Timothy Costello admonished the picketers Monday, telling them they should "be in Albany," not at City Hall.

Some of the students doubted that the protest would affect them directly, but expressed hope that it will aid future high school graduates.

A coed from Columbus High School in the Bronx said, "We want money allocated so that we can go to college. I want to know that I can learn."

Ed. Department to Set Up Summer Training Program

A ten-week program to prepare liberal arts graduates for teaching in secondary schools in disadvantaged neighborhoods of the city will be given at the College in the summer. Financed by the state, the program will train fifty college graduates to teach English, mathematics or science in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades.

Upon completing the program, the trainees will be eligible for a substitute license.

The announcement of this program follows one in which 3,000 prospective teachers will begin their jobs in the fall after completing only a portion of the twelve education credits required of public and junior high school teachers.

The students in the newer program will be offered eight training courses and will participate in seminars on problems of the beginning teacher.

Miss Lubar and Miss Turkish said that they will speak with department chairmen on the need for an extra day.

OP Editor to Seek More Budget Cuts For 2 Newspapers

Josh Mills '67, news editor of Observation Post, said yesterday that he would ask Student Council to further reduce next term's allocation for the College's two major newspapers.

Fee Commission, in its fall budget, has already recommended a $200 cut for each newspaper, as well as cuts in House Plan Association and Interfraternity Council budgets.

Although he would not reveal the exact amount of the cuts he will request, Mills said that he would also ask that The Campus receive $400 less than OP because, he said, The Campus made a large profit last term.

He quoted a member of the managing board of The Campus as saying the newspaper "has eleven hundred dollars extra."

Jean Patman '67 Editor-in-chief of The Campus said yesterday, "How could he possibly know our financial status? The $1100 figure is a distortion and furthermore Josh has no right to speak for The Campus."

Mills said he will present his recommendation to Council May 11 when they are scheduled to discuss Fee Commission's budget allocations.

Levy Appointed to New Office As University Vice-Chancellor

By Tom Ackerman

City University Dean of Studies Harry L. Levy was appointed to the newly created post of administrative vice-chancellor of the University by the Board of Higher Education Monday night.

Dr. Levy, who figured prominently in the University's administrative controversy last winter, will be Chancellor Albert H. Bowker's "general assistant" and execute "all actions and processes centered in the office of the Chancellor."

The 59-year old administrator, who has been with the municipal college system 38 years, will retain his academic status as University Professor of Classics.

Dr. Levy had threatened to resign last November, along with Chancellor Bowker and the presidents of Hunter College and Brooklyn College. The officials had accused the Board of interfering in the University's administration. Dr. Levy later rescinded his threat.

A second vice-chancellorship, for Community Colleges and State University relations was also created by the Board, but an appointment to that post has not been made.

Yesterday, Abraham Goodman, Assistant to City Council President Frank D. O'Connor, said:

the Democratic Party leadership in Albany. We will push very hard for the legislation. We want very much for the City University to get what it needs and deserves."

The same day City Council Majority Leader David Ross (Democrat) attacked Mayor Lindsay for vetoing a $1 million appropriation for reconditioning five buildings at the Kingsborough Community College campus.

He said that the reconditioned buildings would have allowed 750 additional students to attend the University.

FDU Scores Two in Ninth Inning To Hand Diamondmen Sixth Loss

By Leon Halpert

The Lavender baseball squad went into the ninth inning of yesterday's game with Fairleigh Dickinson University involved in a 2-2 tie. When it was over, however, the Beavers were still looking for the first MCBC win. The Knights picked up two tallies in the final stanza to win, 4-2, and get their fourth victory in five conference contests. The Beavers are 2-6 over-all and 0-5 in Met league play.

FDU struck for their two runs against Beaver right-hander Ron Rizzi, who was pitching his best game of the season by far. Through eight innings he had surrendered only four hits while striking out eight and yielding only one earned run.

In the ninth, however, Knight second-baseman Mike Costello drew a walk. He went to second on a throwing error by Beaver shortstop Barry Mandel, and scored on rightfielder Dick Bauer's double, the only extra base hit of the game. Bauer came around for an insurance tally on a single by Mike Rose.

The victory went to Knight reliever Dennis Irulo, who pitched two and one-third innings of scoreless ball. He replaced Frank Brennan, FDU's starter, who yielded only five hits during his stay on the mound.

Until the eventful ninth, the two squads were embroiled in a tight pitchers duel. The Lavender picked up a run in the first when Bill Miller, after singling, went from first to third on a slow grounder to third. He scored when Lou Gatti laced a single to center.

The Knights returned the fire in the top half of the second, scoring one run on a hit batsman, a walk, and a two-base throwing error by Barry Edelstein.

From the bottom of the second until the top of the seventh, both Rizzi and Brennan surrendered only one hit each. FDU's tally in the seventh came as a result of a walk to Costello, a stolen base, and a run-scoring hit by Don McGarry.

The Beavers chased Brennan when Alex Miller picked up a hit and was advanced to third on an opposite field single to right by Sam Rosenblum.

Then, Ron Rizzi laid down a perfect squeeze bunt and reached base safely when Brennan could not make the play on the bunt. However, Irulo came in and retired the next two batters.

The stage was thus set for decisive ninth inning. Rizzi finished that frame and gained his second complete game. However, he has yet to win a game, even though his pitching has improved with every start.

Racketmen Capture Every Set While Topping Engineers, 9-0

By Al Rothstein

The Beaver tennis team found it more difficult to keep warm than to demolish Brooklyn Poly, 9-0, yesterday. This was the netmen's second consecutive 9-0 win and they have not lost a set in either. The Beavers are 7-1 overall, while Poly is 3-4.

The Engineers were totally outclassed from start to finish. Number one Lavender player Neal Spanier gained his seventh victory in eight tries by polishing off Ron Levitz in the opening match.

In the only close singles match of the afternoon Pete Willman, after taking the first set, 6-3, from Mark Pollack, had to work hard to pull out the second, 7-5. Arnie Garfin won his match handily, 6-0, 6-0, to remain undefeated for the season. When Ed Weinstein blanked Poly's Rich Alievitch, 6-0, 6-0, for the Lavender's fifth win, the victory was clinched.

Coach Robert Cire shuffled his doubles, combinations, the outcome no longer being in doubt. Chuck Mattes, who normally plays number one doubles with Pete Willman, teamed up with Wilson Wong to defeat the Engineers' pair, 6-0, 6-2, in the number two doubles contest. Gerald Jaffe and Howard Simmons then rapped up the number three doubles by the same score.

The number one doubles match was the closest of the afternoon, even though it had no bearing on the outcome. The top two Engineer racketman, Levitz and Pollack, were pitted against Joel Litow and Garfin. The Beaver team fell behind 4-1 in the first set, but rallied to win, 7-5. While the freezing Beaver netmen sitting on the bench rushed them on, the Lavender team had less trouble winning the second set, 6-3, to end the massacre.

Stickmen Absorb Overtime Loss

By Joel Wachs

After rolling to four consecutive victories, the Beaver lacrosse team saw its offense collapse in the second half in their game with Stevens, yesterday, as a 5-2 halftime lead turned into a 10-7 overtime defeat.

The game, played under threatening skies in Hoboken, New Jersey, was tied at 6-6 after regulation play, forcing the contest into overtime. In lacrosse, two five-minute overtime periods are played to determine the winner.

After the first extra stanza, the score was still tied, with each team picking up one tally. But, in the final five minutes Stevens spurred for three quick goals, putting the game out of reach.

For the Lavender stickmen, George Grinstein and Richie Rav-ener gathered two goals apiece, while Captain Pat Vallance added a tally and an assist.

Vince Pandoliano, who has a shot at the all-time City College point record, also scored a goal. Attackman Lloyd Smith, playing his first complete game since being sidelined with a stomach ailment, knocked in the other score.

"It was just a sloppy game," commented a disappointed Vallance. The team missed many crucial set-up passes, and as Vallance concluded, "No ball—no shot—no score."

Defensive miscues, which had not been troubling the squad since the early games with C.W. Post and New Hampshire suddenly reappeared against Stevens.

The Beavers also had trouble clearing the ball out of their own defensive zone. To cause further difficulties, attackmen were penalized three times for stepping into the goal crease. Such a penalty usually stifles a serious scoring threat by the offending team.

Educators endorse it.

Professor Jacques Barzun, Columbia University: "Invariably instructive, full, and extremely easy to use. The definitions are not only terse and clear but also elegant... a pleasure to read."

Professor Cleanth Brooks, Yale University: "An able and expertly edited volume."

Professor Harry R. Warfel, University of Florida: "It is incomparably the best desk dictionary now in existence."

Professor George E. Grauel, John Carroll University: "Its superior quality has proven a stimulus to the entire field of American lexicography."

Who is your ideal date? Thousands use Central Control and its high-speed computer for a live, flesh-and-blood answer to this question.

Your ideal date — such a person exists, of course. But how to get acquainted? Our Central Control computer processes 10,000 names an hour. How long would it take you to meet and form an opinion of that many people? You will be matched with five ideally suited persons of the opposite sex, right in your own locale (or in any area of the U.S. you specify). Simply, send $3.00 to Central Control for your questionnaire. Each of the five will be as perfectly matched with you in interests, outlook and background as computer science makes possible.

Central Control is nationwide, but its programs are completely localized. Hundreds of thousands of vigorous and alert subscribers, all sharing the desire to meet their ideal dates, have found computer dating to be exciting and highly acceptable.

All five of your ideal dates will be delightful. So hurry and send your $3.00 for your questionnaire.
