

GOP Hinges CU Aid on Link with State U.

By Eric Biltz

ONE OUT OF TWO: Governor Rockefeller discussed plans for City, State University merger.

Republicans in the State Legislature are working out the details of a merger between the State and City Universities proposed last week by State Senate Majority Leader Earl Brydges (Republican).

The proposal would provide for the establishment of a state university campus in the city with which the University would be required to share its facilities in return for a requested $5 million increase in state aid.

The details were discussed yesterday at a meeting between Governor Rockefeller, Senator Brydges, Senator Warren Anderson (Republican) and Assembly Minority Leader Perry Duryea (Rep.) Senator Brydges said last week that he will propose the merger in the Senate before Friday.

However, Assembly Majority Leader Moses Weinstein said yesterday that the legislature's Democrats and Republicans were working on a compromise bill which would provide the University with the necessary aid and yet be acceptable to both the Democratic Assembly and Republican Senate.

He said that the Assembly's Speaker Anthony Travia (Democrat) would "issue a statement in the next couple of days" on the outcome of these efforts.

Mr. Travia had announced his support Friday for legislation similar to that proposed in the Senate by Senator Manfred Ohrenstein (Democrat). The bills are now being considered by the Assembly's Rules Committee.

These bills would finance the University's capital budget through $400 million in bonds to be paid for on a fifty-fifty basis by both city and state over forty years.

They would also increase the state's share of the University's operating budget by $6 million next year.

The Rules Committee is also considering a proposal by Assemblyman Melville Abrams (Democrat) which would revise the aid formula so that both City and State Universities would receive an equal share. At present, Abrams

150 at Pro-Vietnam Rally Stage Sit-in after Walkout

Top Gov't Officials Speak for US Asian Policy

Students for and against the administration's policy in Vietnam clashed Thursday in Great Hall when 250 demonstrators staged a pre-arranged walkout of a rally to "Support our Troops in Vietnam."

The rally, attended by the South Vietnamese Ambassador to the United Nations and President Gallagher, was interrupted during an opening speech to the 600 students in the audience by Rubin Margiles '67, one of the rally organizers.

Councilman Barry Schrage '68, signalled the walkout by jumping from his seat and shouting, "We've had enough of your lies, Rubin."

As the demonstrators moved towards the rear exit doors of Great

Confront Gallagher on Steps Of Administration Building

By Andy Soltis

Approximately 150 demonstrators against the war in Vietnam staged a sit-in and confrontation with President Gallagher on the steps of the Administration Building minutes after a rally "to Support Our Boys" ended Thursday.

The demonstrators, who had staged a walkout at the beginning of the rally in Great Hall over an hour earlier, sat-in to protest the presence of police on the campus and denounce President Gallagher for speaking at the rally.

Several heated debates erupted between the demonstrators and students returning from the rally, as policemen surrounded the entrance to the building.

When the rally ended, President Gallagher headed for his office, but was immediately surrounded by jeering and cheering students from both sides.

Tenure Voice For Students To Be Weighed

By Carol DiFalco

The Faculty Council will consider Thursday two plans to grant students a voice in tenure, although proponents of the plans are not very optimistic for their passage.

Prof. Samuel Hendel (Political Science), chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee on Personnel and Budget which forwarded the recommendations to the Faculty Council, said Friday that he was "by no means confident" that either plan will pass.

The legislative making body of the College will consider:

College Park Site Bid Threatened

More than 180 Harlem leaders yesterday asked Mayor Lindsay to consider part of St. Nicholas Park, set aside in the College's Master Plan for a new athletic field, as a source for a new municipal building, possibly a community college.

While the request, in the form of a letter, made no mention of the College's intention to utilize the park, community leaders have been critical of that plan since it was announced last semester.

President Gallagher said last night, "I'd rather not comment on this matter at the present time."

The letter also appealed to the Mayor to consider the Harlem area as a possible site for the new Baruch School of Business and Public Administration and the College of Police Science. Both buildings have been slated by the Board of Higher Education for construction on the lower West Side.

The Harlem leaders maintained

Fourth Draft Test to Be Offered

A fourth Selective Service draft deferment test will be offered Friday, June 24 for students who did not apply for or cannot take the test on the first three dates, May 14, May 21, and June 3.

Students must apply for the fourth test by June 1.

The Department of Student Services here has estimated that at least 6,000 students from the College have already applied to take the tests.

Teacher, Course Survey Data Will Be Released on May 20

By Neil Offen

Former Student Government Vice President Herman Berliner '65 announced yesterday that the results of last term's course and teacher evaluation survey will be revealed at a student-faculty dinner May 20.

While unable to divulge any "specific results" at this time, Berliner said the "outstanding characteristic" of the survey is that "students indicated that their instructors' strongest asset was their attitude toward, and knowledge of, their subjects."

He added that the results of the survey will give students evaluations of departments rather than

A Leading Question

The Student Government elections beginning today bring little promise of strong, creative or forceful leadership for next year. The rolls of competent, qualified candidates are small; the dearth of ability and interest in SG is great. In a period when so many important, controversial issues confront the campus, strength and hardworking people are urgently needed for our student government. With few exceptions, SG has been weak this past year, and from the line-up of candidates for next year there seems little hope for improvement. Unfortunately, the handful of competent candidates are vying for the same positions.

Unfortunately, also, is the fact that the largest lack of competency is most exemplified by the candidates for the highest post—SG President. Both Rubin Margules and Shelly Sachs have little to recommend them, both have even less to recommend for SG.

Neither candidate offers any philosophy for government. In fact, Mr. Sachs has displayed, in addition to a lack of adequate experience, a flagrant lack of knowledge concerning the functioning, purpose and concept of SG. Mr. Margules, who at least has had some experience, should know better, but doesn't. Neither candidate will add any luster to the already tarnished armor of SG, and needless to say neither will not offer SG the dynamic leadership it so desperately needs. We have but two hopes for next year's SG President: the winner should use the number to take a long, hard look at himself and the body he is to lead and learn the necessary facts about both; additionally he should lean heavily on some of his more competent fellow executives.

With two such weak candidates for president, the position of executive vice-president should take on much more strength. But, again, both candidates for this position fail to fill the bill. Both Cliff Tisser and Fred Hirsch have not distinguished themselves in their tenures on council; both have limited, unoriginal concepts of the position they are running for, neither shows any great knowledge of the issues that confront us—especially free tuition.

Through the post of Educational Affairs Vice-President have come the majority of SG's worthwhile contributions this last year. The two contestants for the position, Joe Korn and Bill Reich, are both experienced executives and have adequate credentials to recommend them. But Mr. Korn is clearly the superior of the two. As Educational Affairs vice-president since March, and as a former member of SG's curriculum committee, Mr. Korn has worked long, tirelessly and effectively for curriculum revision. He is undoubtedly council's most knowledgeable member in the realm of educational affairs. Bill Reich, while a competent, though not an extraordinary SG Secretary, in unfamiliar with the entire scope of educational affairs, and is limited in his experience and ideas. We therefore, heartily endorse Joe Korn for Educational Affairs Vice President.

As Community Affairs Vice President since March, Ellen Turkish has impressive accomplishments on her record and significant, original plans for the future. The Campus strongly endorses her candidacy.

With so few competent people running for executive office, it is particularly unfortunate that two of them, Ken Schaeffer and Shirley Appel, are running against each other for Campus Affairs Vice-President accomplishments during the year. Both candidates are experienced, both have substantial accomplishments and excellent platforms to offer. Either candidate, we feel, would make an excellent Campus Affairs Vice President.

The race for SG treasurer, is a clearly defined one. It is between the experienced, knowledgeable present treasurer, Larry Yermack, and Allan Perry, not nearly as experienced and not nearly as original. Mr. Yermack, who, with little time this term has drawn up a competent budget, has several imaginative ideas for next year. Mr. Perry has none, and in fact, views the functions of treasurer very narrowly. We therefore endorse Mr. Yermack.

The deciding factor in the contest for SG Secretary between Karen Tischelman and Jeff Flier is imagination. Both candidates are experienced, perhaps with Miss Tischelman holding the edge here, and both are acquainted with the function of secretary. Miss Tischelman, however, evidences in her platform a much wider and imaginative concept of the secretary's role. We feel that she is the better of the two candidates.

Protestors Confront President

Several demonstrators struggled with the police in an attempt to stop the President from entering the building, but their actions ceased when Dr. Gallagher stopped to confront the crowd.

For almost half an hour, the President stood on the steps to answer demands from the demonstrators on why he had spoken at the rally and given what they termed "implicit support" to the war.

Matty Berkelhammer '67, one of the demonstrators, charged Dr. Gallagher's speech with placing the College administration on record as supporting the war.

The President, frequently interrupted by catcalls and hisses, spoke with a note of anger in his voice as he said he was at the rally as an individual and not a representative of the College.

"How can you conscientiously protest my speech when you weren't even there?" he asked the crowd.

After a refusal by the demonstrators to send representatives to discuss their protests in the President's office, Dr. Gallagher suggested that the entire group "adjourn to Great Hall" and continue the debate there.

Inside, Berkelhammer questioned the appearance of police and FBI men "to hamper" the protest.

The police had come on campus when the anti-war demonstrators, who had been picketing across the street from Shepard Hall, began to march toward the Administration Building.

President Gallagher said Thursday that he had initiated a full investigation into why the police were on campus and a progress report would be released today.

According to Councilman Barry Schrage '68, one of the organizers of the demonstration, the students had intended to walk around the building once in protest and then send representatives to discuss their grievances with President Gallagher.

A police sergeant said that the police had not been asked by the College to come onto the campus, but "we always assign patrolmen to an area when there are two opposing groups demonstrating."

During the hour-and-a-half debate inside Great Hall, the president attempted to explain his appearance at the rally by pointing out that he spoke also at last April's Teach-In on Vietnam.

"In the public mind, the image of one was against the war and the image of the other was in favor of it. Though I considered myself a dissenter at both events, if I failed to appear at either, it would be construed as opposition to it," he said.

The anti-war students challenged his statement by arguing that the teach-in was "an educational event where both sides were presented" and Thursday's rally allowed only one point of view.

Hall chanting "End the War in Vietnam, Bring the Boys Home," a series of scuffles broke out between the two sides.

Approximately 200 demonstrators sat on the stone floor to block the exit, but were picked up and thrown out of the hall.

Mike Markowitz '68, one of the demonstration organizers, charged that several Burns guards and students wearing "Support Our Boys" buttons had started the fighting.

Steve Sommerstein, managing editor of Main Events, said he was "manhandled" by pro-war partisans while taking pictures of the walkout.

However, supporters of the rally claimed no responsibility for instigating the disorder.

Student Government President Carl Weitzman '66, said, "It is impossible to avoid violence like this when 200 people pass by another 200 people—both sides emotionally charged."

Following the walkout, the demonstrators formed picket lines in front of Jasper Oval, and the remaining 400 students in Great Hall listened to the speakers reaffirm the need for United States involvement in Southeast Asia.

The South Vietnamese Ambassador, Vu Van Thai, argued that the defense of his nation was necessary for the protection of all Southeast Asia. The war in Vietnam, he said, "involves much more than the destiny of the Vietnamese nation."

James Nabrit, the Deputy Ambassador to the United Nations, told the enthusiastic audience that United States' "efforts towards seeking peace are as great as our efforts on the battlefield."

"Our cause in Vietnam is the cause of the right," he added.

Following his speech, Mr. Nabrit was presented with a petition signed by 1,300 students at the College supporting the Johnson Administration's actions in Vietnam.

Dr. Gallagher, who was afterwards confronted by the anti-war demonstrators in front of the Administration Building, spoke in "strong favor" of "that part of the present national policy which earnestly seeks an early conference at the peace table."

"This position is sharply distinguishable from the point of view which would escalate the war effort in order to win a military victory," he added.

Educational Affairs Vice President Joe Korn '68 said yesterday that SG would continue with the survey next year, "but on a revamped basis."

"Next year's survey will be more individual; it will be more tailored to particular departments," he said.

Korn noted that in an experimental project he will administer to the Chemistry department later this week a survey "designed especially for them."

"We want to see how it works, to help students and faculty in revising the survey this summer," he added.

Korn revealed that next term "SG will not press for the publication of the results of the survey."

"We don't think that making the results known is so important," he said.

Tenure Voice

that a "random sampling of students" participate in granting tenure.

Professor Hendel said that while the Faculty Council has "approved the idea in principle," several members "have expressed doubt" about the value of student involvement in deciding tenure.

The professor emphasized that if either plan is approved Thursday, the questionnaires students would complete on their teachers would be "only one piece of evidence" in a decision on tenure.

The major value of the project, he said, will be to help the faculty "identify the exceptional and the inferior teachers."

Charter Day

The College will hold its annual Charter Day ceremonies Thursday beginning at 12 in Great Hall.

Prof. Daniel Bell, noted educator from Columbia University, will speak at the ceremony, which commemorates the founding of the Free Academy in 1847. Professor's Bell's topic will be "The Role of Liberal Arts."

Classes will not be held at 11.

CU Aid

contends, the State University is "getting twice as much state aid as the CU."

Mr. Abrams, who is also the sponsor of the free tuition mandate passed by the Assembly three weeks ago, said that this bill is now languishing in the Senate's Committee on Higher Education which has not yet "reported" it out.

He added that even if the bill reaches the Senate floor, its chances for passage are not good because, "Republicans as a party are opposed to free tuition."

Meanwhile protest mounted against the University's recently-announced drastic cutbacks in next term's enrollment.

Three hundred members of the Federation of Puerto Rican Parents picketed Governor Rockefeller's New York office Saturday. They were mourning for approximately 100 Puerto Rican students who, they said had lost their "passport out of poverty" when they were rejected from the University for the fall.

The College's Alumni Association is also decrying the financial crisis plaguing the University.

In support of Senator Ohrenstein's bills, the Association has mailed letters to its 70,000 members requesting them to petition Governor Rockefeller to back the program.

Dr. Seymour Weisman, executive director of the Alumni Association, said the lobbying campaign is directed at the governor because "I think the public will hold him responsible" if the bills are defeated.

that construction of municipal buildings in the community are necessary to the "revitalization" of the area.

"The location of use of such buildings would not only help change the ghetto status of our community but would stimulate new and rehabilitated housing and serve as a magnet for private investments," the letter stated.

Among the signers of the letter were Congressman Adam Clayton Powell; Whitney Young, Executive Director of the National Urban League; Congressman William F. Ryan; Floyd B. McKissick, National Director of the Congress of Racial Equality; and Dr. C. B. Powell, publisher of the Amsterdam News.

Beaver Hitting Surge Extends Win Streak

The Beaver baseball team increased its string to three victories in a row with an 8-6 come-from-behind triumph over New York University last Friday, following a 12-0 rout of Queens the day before.

Sparked by an excellent relief performance on the part of Tom Terlizzi, the diamondmen scored their eight runs in the middle three innings to top the Violets. When Terlizzi had entered the game in the fourth frame, he found that Joel Weinberg had left him with the bases full of Violets.

He got the side out, and in his five and two-third inning stint allowed only one hit, a bloop single in the fifth. In the hitting department, Lou Gatti supplied the big blow with his third homer of the season. Gatti hit his other two bombs in the first two games of the season, and he had not come through with a four-bagger since April 6.

Although Gatti was in a home run slump, the Beavers had no trouble supplying enough power during their 12-0 romp over Queens on Thursday. Steve Beccalori was the big man with three hits and three runs batted in.

But, the entire squad was hitting, as every Lavender smashed at least one base hit. Not to be outdone by the hitting, although he blasted three hits himself, Ron Rizzi struck out eight men, in recording his first shutout of the season.

Pandoliano Tops Scoring Record As Stickmen Win

By Joel Wachs

Frequently, the performance of a super-star will overshadow a team victory.

This was the case in the College's 10-5 Lacrosse triumph over Drexel, Saturday, as Captain Vincent Pandoliano led the Lavender attack with nine points, to establish a new total season point record at the College. Going into the game with 35 points, his 5 goals and 4 assists broke All-American John Orlando's 42-point output by 2.

The lopsided score is misleading, for the game was locked 4-4 after three quarters and the Beavers had been trailing 4-2 at the half. However four successive goals, opening the fourth quarter, iced the game. George Grinstein and Richie Ravener each bagged two goals and Abe Ruda added one.

Bernie Halper, the sophomore goalie, made eighteen saves and according to Captain Pat Vallance was "really terrific."

Soccer

There will be a most important meeting for prospective varsity soccer team members on Thursday, May 12, 1966 in Room 115, Townsend Harris Hall, at 12:15. The meeting is open to anyone (uptown and downtown matriculated students) who is interested in becoming a varsity soccer team member.

Any candidate who wishes to become a varsity soccer team manager is welcome to come, also. At least three managers are needed. Managers will attend all games home and away.

Adelphi, Redmen Bow Before Netmen Power

By Joe Bander

The College's tennis team continued on its merry way down victory lane by trouncing a strong Adelphi squad, 7-2 on Saturday after blanking St. John's, 9-0, Wednesday.

The Lavender strength dominated the singles matches as they took all twelve played in the two meets. The only losses for the two meets were taken by two substitute doubles duos, who were outclassed by more experienced Panther netmen.

Only two men were carried to three sets by Adelphi racketmen. Don Lawner and the Beavers' Pete Willmann split the first two sets, but Willmann prevailed in the third, 6-4. The other three set singles match was won by Arnie Garfin, who has yet to lose in eleven singles and six doubles contests. Garfin, who played number four, was pressed to the third set for the first time by Panther Ed Panes.

The Redmen succumbed to the netmen without taking one set. Neal Spanier started the parade by topping Tom O'Donahue, 6-3, 6-1. Garfin and Ed Weinstein achieved 6-0, 6-0 wins, Weinstein's clinching the encounter.

The Beavers now find themselves with a 10-1 record, 9-1 in Met conference play. Their hopes for even a share of the Met title hinge on whether Adelphi could accomplish a big upset and stop Hofstra next week. The Dutchmen are undefeated in league play, with a 5-4 victory over the Lavender to their credit.

The netmen have two contests remaining—with Pratt and Iona. Pratt should offer no resistance and Iona just a little more.

Trackmen Take CU Tourney As Sharps Wins Four Medals

By Danny Kornstein

The Lavender track team swamped Brooklyn and Hunter, 101 to 53 to 35 in the triangular City University Championships Saturday. Queens College, which would have offered a stiff challenge, was in Virginia for the Quantico Relays.

Jimmy Sharps had a great day, taking four first places and breaking a school record in the 120-yard high hurdles. Sharps won the hurdles in 15.6, a tenth of a second under the old mark, as well as the broad jump, triple jump, and high jump.

The College's thirty-five year-old mile record was in jeopardy for most of the mile race. Junior Jim O'Connell made a stab at the 4:18.9 clocking and put together his career best of 4:23. O'Connell ran the whole race alone with the nearest man over a hundred yards back.

Two of the best times were hit by freshmen. Jack Balaban posted a new frosh standard of 1:58.7 for the half, almost three seconds under the previous record. In the quarter Don Davis hit 51 seconds flat.

In the mile relay, Dennis Wildfogel and John Fick ran the first two legs just a few minutes after sweeping the 440 intermediate hurdles and finished their turns with a 30-yard deficit. Lew Rosenblatt knocked this down to almost nothing but anchorman Tommy Walsh got off to a slow start.

Brooklyn had fifteen yards at the beginning of the stretch when Walsh let out with a desperate kick that took the event by eight yards.

Spanier: Quick Rise to the Top

By Jack Zaraya

Neal Spanier has climbed to the top in his first year on the varsity—he's the number one player on this year's 10-1 Beaver tennis team.

How does he find time to work for an architecture degree and yet practice two hours a day for the team?

"You have so much time so you have to decide what's important," he explains. "In fact," Neal adds, "this term I'm doing the best that I've ever done in school."

A graduate of the Bronx High School of Science, Spanier first got interested in tennis as a member of the handball team in Science. When he saw that his school had a good tennis team, he decided to try out and was soon on the doubles squad. He lost one match his whole junior year.

In outside tournaments, Spanier was unfortunate last year in the Metropolitan Freshman Tournament when he had to forfeit in the semifinals due to a physics final examination in school. This year he expects to be ceded third in the Metropolitan Championship.

According to Spanier, his strong points are his ground strokes and his serve. He admits he is weak in his volleying or net game.

Aside from affecting his school work, tennis has had a different kind of influence on Spanier. "As long as I was going to be the number one man on the team, I thought I might as well lose some weight," he explains. And that he did, going from 195 to 172 in just a few months.

A future in tennis? An emphatic "No." "No more than a summer job as a tennis counselor," says Spanier.
